Lot 68A

A mid 20th-century French treen fruitwood hand-carved vase, decorated in relief with grape and vine motifs, 24cm high.

Note: France has a long tradition of relief carving, with treen vases of this type often produced as decorative centrepieces or "dry vases" intended for the display of dried flowers. The grape and vine motif is closely associated with French viticulture, symbolising abundance, prosperity and the vendange, or harvest. French artisans historically used fruitwoods, walnut and oak to create decorative objects celebrating the earthly and symbolic importance of wine.

A miniature bible, produced as a souvenir of the Glasgow Exhibition of 1901, published by David Bryce and Son, Glasgow, printed at the University Press, bound in brown-green cloth with black curlicue printed decoration, 876 fine India paper pages, measuring approx. 4.8cm in height

Note: David Bryce took over his father's successful publishing business in 1870 and, seven years later, decided to develop a range of miniature books. The firm ultimately became one of the most prolific and successful miniature publishers in the world. Bryce commented on his success, "I descended to the miniature, mite and midget size, producing a little dictionary, the smallest in the world, in a locket accompanied by a magnifying glass. I had many a scoff and jeer as to the absurdity of the production, nevertheless it at once appealed... and its sales are now over 100,000". Alongside the Holy Bible, David Bryce and Sons produced a miniature Qur'an and Bhagavad Ghita.

Shaw (Thomas George) Wine, the Vine, and the Cellar

London, Longman, Green, Longman, Roberts, & Green, 1863, first edition, bound in the original green cloth with gilt pictorial upper cover by Edmonds & Remnants of London, 8vo, period gift inscription - to Mrs. Hamilton - in ink to title, signed with initials, possibly by the author, 28 full-page and in-text illustrations, as called for. Dedication to W.E. Gladstone precedes main text.

Note: Shaw's comprehensive exploration of viticulture, oenology, and the wine trade was informed by his decades long career as a Scottish wine merchant. A definitive work on wine, it was described by historian André Simon as "one of the most interesting books we have on the subject". The text concerns primarily French wines, notably Bordeaux, coming very shortly after its 1856 classification.

Provenance: The family of Sir James Young Simpson (1811-1870), Scottish obstetrician, the first physician to demonstrate the anaesthetic properties of chloroform. The Robert Simpson to whom the pocket watch originally belonged is quite possibly Sir James' nephew, who left a moving account of the pioneering medic's final days -

"He who had seen suffering in so many forms and had done so much to alleviate the pain of others was now in the furnace of affliction. But there he was sustained by the presence of the Son of Man. He who had so often stood by the bed of death and softened so many dying pillows was now face to face with the last enemy. Yet there was no murmuring under suffering, no terror in prospect of death. He had learnt to count these afflictions as but for a moment; he had been taught the secret of victory over death."
