AN 1852 FRANKLIN SEARCH EXPEDITION 'RESCUE BUTTON' OR 'POSTAL BUTTON'. An 1852 'Rescue Button' or 'Postal Button' for Franklin's lost expedition to find the North West Passage of 1845. The button detailing the location of stores of provisions and rescue ships. "1852 Gone N.E. of Pt. Barrow. Investigator - Augt. 1850. Enterprise Augt 1851. Plover at Port Clarence. Squadron with steamers searching N& W of Parry Islands 1852. Depots of provisions. Refuge inlet. Port Leopold & Admiralty inlet in Barrow Straits." The reverse "Arctic Expeditions in search of Sir John Franklin." 3.4 cm Following the end of the Napoleonic Wars the Admiralty needed new goals for its most ambitious Captains, and Arctic exploration was to be one of these. Specifically the search for the North West Passage and to journey to the North Pole. Franklin's was one of the most celebrated of these expeditions, and fuelled by the efforts of his wife, the search for his ships and crew was almost more famous than the expedition itself. The expedition took two ships, HMS Erebus and HMS Terror captained by Francis Crozier, the most modern and best equipped ships of their time. Sir John Franklin, an experienced Naval Officer who had fought at Trafalgar, felt the discovery of the North West Passage might be the crowning achievement of his career. An experienced polar explorer he was known to the public as 'The man who ate his boots' following problems on a previous vovaae. there were few better candidates to lead the expedition. At the time a vovaae which was considered 'the greatest single expedition of discovery Britain had ever mounted'. With 129 men and supplies for three years the two ships headed north to complete some of the last few unexplored gaps on the Victorian map. Heading into the otherworldly Arctic where the risk of frost-bite, scurvy, being trapped by the ice, polar bear attack, or the numerous other perils of exploration in such inhospitable parts of the world, it is easy to understand the public's interest in such a voyage. The ships were last sighted in July of 1845 and rescue parties were sent as early as 1847. For such expeditions to spend several winters in the ice was not uncommon. John Ross, for instance, was rescued two years after he had been feared dead when he failed to return from his explorations. The numerous rescue expeditions, over thirty in total, began to search from 1848 with three relief ships from the Admiralty, and eventually a £20,000 reward being offered. Unfortunately none were totally successful and all led to further loss of life. Hundreds of balloons spread the message, thousands of printed despatches, rockets, gunshots, drums, messages attached to Arctic foxes, flashing lights and these extraordinary buttons, were all used to try and communicate with the missing men. The buttons were given to Inuit hunters who, it was hoped, might pass them on to the men. Believed to have been used between 1852-54 by Commander Robert McClure of HMS Investigator and its companion ship HMS Enterprise, and by Captain Belcher and others during the multi-ship squadron's search the buttons were disseminated far and wide. How many buttons were produced is not known. This is probably only the 5th example known of this extraordinary artefact, almost unbelievably a detectorist find from West Dorset (DOR-D32A63). The other four include one in the Smithsonian Institution which has been used as a pipe bowl on an Inuit pipe, and most recently an example was sold by Bearnese in Exeter. An image of this button is to be included in Brian Read's forthcoming work on buttons.

The battalion fought gallantly at the siege of Badajoz during March 1812, as part of the 5th Division they created a diversion by climbing the San Vicente Bastion with ladders, and as a consequence were the first men to enter the town. At Waterloo the formed a square alongside the 2/73rd and withstood many attacks from the French , so much so that they lost 45% of their strength that day. Winders was discharged at Fermoy on the 29th April in 1817 when the Battalion was reduced in size. Both clasps confirmed to this recipient. With copied papers and research. Provenance: This medal is recorded as having been offered for sale in 1894. Also Noonans 2007 and 2014.

Roddis 21 /L'CRS, Khedive's Sudan medal 1896-1908 with Khartoum clasp to 3978 Pte C. Roddis 21st Ltrs. And a George V Long Service and Good Conduct medal named to 916 Sjt C. Roddis 9/L'CRS. With a photograph of the recipient in uniform on his wedding day wearing the first two medals. 33 x 26 cm. 3978 Charles Roddis is confirmed on both the Cairo Roll, Kereri Roll, Hick's Scroll, Queen's Sudan Roll and Khedive's Sudan Roll. A photograph and roll confirmations are recorded in Roy Dutton's authoritative work 'The Charge of the 21st Lancers at Omdurman'. This work also illustrates a picture of Roddis with the 9th Lancers on the Regimental Staff at Potchefstroom which was taken on the 1st December 1909. At Omdurman he rode with A Squadron. Roddis married Margaret Sophia Cashford on the 3rd August 1911 at St Gregory's Church in Canterbury. Their daughter Patricia Margaret Rodis was born on the 29th May 1912. Provenance the family of the recipient and thence by descent. Roddis went on to work on the uniforms of the 21st Lancers, for his hand drawn pattern book see lot 674 above. There are few actions in British Military history that are better known than the Cavalry charge by the 21st Lancers at Omdurman on the 2nd September 1898. One of the most famous battles of Major-General Sir Horatio Herbert Kitchener's campaign for the re-conquest of the Sudan. The charge was undertaken by 447 men and officers of the 21st Lancers. A relatively new group, the 21st were eager to add a battle honour to their colours, and one suspects, even more eager to loose the supposed motto 'Thou shalt not kill'. Fighting against a much larger, less well armed, but unflinchingly brave and committed enemy, Omdurman has gone down in history as including the last great Cavalry Charge of the British Army. Roddis rode as part of A Squadron alongside a young Winston Churchill. Riding at approximately 20 miles per hour towards the enemy across an open plain unaware of a sunken 'Khor' (dry riverbed) where 2,000 tribesmen were hiding in wait. Churchill recalled the charge. 'A deep crease in the ground - dry watercourse, a khor - appeared where all had seemed smooth, level plain; and from it there sprang, with the suddenness of a pantomime effect a high pitched yell, a dense white mass of men nearly as long as our front and about twelve deep. A score of horsemen and a dozen bright flags rose as if my magic from the earth.' The Lancers suffered 21 fatalities and 44 casualties during the two minutes or so of frenetic fighting. Amongst the chargers three men were awarded the Victoria Cross for attempts to rescue the wounded. Roddis played an important in this action and was rewarded with the medals offered here.

War medal and Victory medal 6438 W.O. Cl 1 J. Barfield Notts & Derby R. Long Service and Good Conduct medal to 122021 C.S. Mjr J. Barfield Lab C. John Barfield had a long and successful military career. Born in 1871 he served with the Derbyshire Regiment serving in India from the 11th November 1891 to the 23rd March 1898, taking part in the Tirah campaign as part of the 1st Brigade of the main column. Barfield returned to England and transferred to the Royal Warwickshire Regiment in March 1898 serving with the 3rd Battalion in Malta before travelling to South Africa as part of the Warwickshires' section of the Malta Horse. Malta Horse were a small unit formed at Malta on the 17th February 1900 from sections of the 3rd Royal Warwick Regiment, 3rd Lancashire Fusiliers 1st L.N. Lincs and 1st Derbyshire Regiment. They were employed principally on duties as advanced guards, flank patrols and scouts, as well as undertaking night-time forays and intelligence gathering assignments. It was with this unit that Barfield was twice Mentioned in Despatches, The London Gazette for July 9th 1901 when serving with the Malta Mounted Infantry, "Near Vet River, Orange River Colony, on the 7th April, 1901, with only a native scout, pursued six armed Boers and rode down one, and shot him when he refused to surrender. He behaved with great dash". Mentioned a second time by General Kitchener, Gazette July 18th 1902 'For several acts of gallantry in action, and especially for single-handed capture of Boers on 20th April 1902'. A longer report of the action appeared in the Regimental Journal: 'The last fight of the 9th Mounted Infantry was at Scotland West. The 9th M.I. attacked at dawn on the 19th April. The Boers were about 80 strong under Commander Nagil. Those who were cornered, and could not escape, fired at our men, and killed Shea of the Munsters, who was leading the attack on one side of the building. He was one of two casualties, the other being a man slightly wounded. The Munsters and Maltas dashed on the Boers with fiendish yells, Sergt. Barfield being singularly successful with the butt-end of his rifle. The result was five Boers killed and 20 prisoners'. The award of the Distinguished Conduct Medal was reported in the Gazette on the 31st October 1902. Discharged in August 1902 he re-enlisted for a further two years with the Royal Garrison Regiment serving in Malta and South Africa. Following this period of service he joined the South Africa Constabulary and was posted to 'G' Troop serving in the Ladybrand District. He was discharged in 1908 and returned to England. At the outbreak of the First World War he re-enlisted with the Nottinghamshire and Derbyshire Regiment on the 2nd of September 1914 reaching the rank of Company Sergeant-Major by the 5th October 1914 and Warrant Officer Class I on the 4th August 1916. Lot 900

AN IMPORTANT SECOND WORLD WAR GROUP OF FIVE AND LOG BOOK TO A STIRLING PILOT WHO FLEW AT D-DAY AND OPERATION MARKET GARDEN, AND ON OTHER HISTORIC OCCASIONS. A Second World War group of five comprising a 1939-45 Star, Air Crew Europe Star with France and Germany clasp, Defence and War Medal, all unnamed as issued, and an Elizabeth II Cadet forces Medal with two additional service clasps, named to Act Flt Lt G.H. Chesterton R.A.F. V.R. (T). Mounted as worn. With accompanying miniatures and ribbon bar, log book with numerous pasted in images and documents, cloth insignia, a 'ticket' from metal of a crashed glider, various volumes including 'Pilot's and Flight Engineer's Notes for Stirling I, III, IV' and other items. Named Operations in the Log Book comprise: Tonga, Robroy, Grog, Stationer, Donald, Dunhill, Market, Market II, Market Resupply. George Chesterton (1922 - 2012) left Malvern College in 1941, at the age of 18, and immediately volunteered for the RAF. Training began in February 1942 with flight training in Alberta, Canada. An early instructor may have considered him 'a total washout', but training saw him become a most capable pilot flying Oxfords, Ansons and Cessnas scoring 'Above Average' in final tests. His abilities resulting in a Commission and posting to an Operational Training Unit in Canada. A visit to New York and a chance to dance with Katherine Hepburn and 'Gypsy Rose Lee' was clearly a highlight of the generous hospitality the young officer experienced in North America. Training with No. 34 O.T.U. in Penfield began in February 1943 flying in Venturas, a low-level fighter bomber designed to support troops on the ground and to carry out shipping strikes. Return to the U.K. saw conversion to the Mitchell 'a superlative light bomber'. Early 1944 a further conversion to the Stirling bomber at a Heavy Conversion Unit at Tilstock in Shropshire. Operational flying began in March 1944 with 190 Squadron flying out of Leicester as part of 38 Group. It is with this unit that Chesterton played such an important part at D-Day and at the crossing of the Rhine. He completed his tour with 24 operations comprising 147 hours of operational flying. Chesterton's aircraft was LK431 with recognition letter F for 'Ferdinand el Taurus'. Preparations for D-Day were the primary role on arrival at the Squadron, with many hours training with daily exercises with paratroopers or towing Horsa gliders. At the invasion 38 Group Stirlings were to deliver paratroops of the Sixth Air Division, Fifth Parachute Brigade, onto the banks of the river Orme. Chesterton recalled the events 'We were in our own aircraft ... newly painted with its special D-Day white stripes ... We crossed over the Channel at only 1,000 feet, making a rapid climb to cross the enemy coast between 8,000 and 10,000 feet ... we descended to 800 feet ... the main door was opened, the red light went on and, seconds later, on with the green and the whole stick of paratroops left in quick succession. ... On the return journey, we had the spectacular sight of the invasion fleet making its way to the Normandy coast.' Working closely with airborne forces was the primary role of the Squadron, however there was an equally important and highly secret secondary role of 'the supply of all sorts of ammunition, weapons and supplies to resistance movements, most especially in France ... under the umbrella of the SOE (Special Operations Executive).' Supporting and stimulating resistance behind the front line was an important part of the plans to win the War in Europe. Chesterton flew at least nine times on SOE operations and twice on what are recorded as 'S.A.S. Operation'. These flights usually involved the dropping of supplies in preparation for D-Day and supplies in support of sabotage and other resistance activities. Up to 24 canisters were dropped in low level flights at 500 meters, usually during periods of a full moon, containing small arms such as Sten Guns, ammunition, grenades, plastic explosives, anti-tank mortars which were all required in large quantities. Flights which involved various 'scrapes' with the enemy, and on one occasion a serious hit to the tail from an American shell Chesterton was magnanimous enough to comment 'However, in fairness to them, we were possibly out of position'. The events of Operation Market Garden are well recorded. The ambitious attempt to bring the War to an early end and take the fight onto German soil, were the most eventful of the War for Chesterton. The largest ever airborne operation saw over 20,000 paratroops dropped and nearly 14,000 glider borne men carried. 'On the first day, the air armada took sixty-five minutes to pass overhead'. 190 Squadron suffered heavy losses during the Operation, Chesterton and his crew flew on the first day with pathfinder paratroops ahead of the main force to secure landing grounds. The second day they towed Horsa gliders. The third day the casualties began to increase, the German resistance being far more concerted than had been expected and the majority of drop zones falling into enemy hands. The fourth day involved a resupply flight with 24 containers and four panniers, and a similar flight on the 23rd. The Squadron lost 14 aircraft during the week. Events which had a significant impact on Chesterton 'This was the end of the ghastly Arnhem fiasco, which has since haunted me these sixty plus years'. SOE operations followed, lengthy and ground-breaking Horsa tows to Italy and flights to Norway were undertaken, and by the beginning of 1945 Chesterton's first tour of operations was complete as a result of six months operational flying. A move to a transport squadron in the Far East followed, 242 Squadron flying to Karachi, North Africa. Demobilization followed in October 1946 after an extended period during which playing cricket for the R.A.F. seems to have the best enjoyed distraction. Oxford and teaching at Malvern college followed with cricket seldom far away. In 2004 Chesterton returned to Arnhem as part of the Lottery Funded 'heroes Return' scheme. A handmade volume with the lot "Operation "Market" 18 Sept 1944 includes images of drop zone 'Z', Stirling LK 431 and flight plans. In 2008 George Chesterton published his memoirs 'Also Flew' which were written with all the modesty and charm that one might expect. The quotations used here are from this volume. He is also recorded on several occasions in Michael Bowyer's 'The Stirling Bomber', Faber and Faber, London 1980. The biography by Andrew Murtagh 'A Remarkable Man: The story of George Chesterton' is primarily concerned with his sporting career playing for Oxford University, The MCC and the County of

Worcestershire. He was awarded the M.B.E. by the Queen for services to the community in 2012. Provenance: The family of the recipient.

Asia 1945-46 clasp and 1953 Coronation Medal. A framed commendation to Major Ian Kingzett of the South Staffordshire Regiment from Montgomery 'It has been brought to my notice that you have performed outstanding good service' ... dated 1st August 1946. Similar framed note marking his leaving the Rhine Army. The full sized awards to Brigadier Brian Kingzett 64th Anti Tank Regiment Royal Artillery, were sold in Kent in 2017. His M.C. was awarded in 1942: Capt, T/Major, A/Lt Col B Kingzett has a record in action of unflinching determination and enthusiasm. While commanding 457 Light Battery he frequently gave most valuable and balanced accounts to Division HQ of the progress of the various actions, disposing of rumours, and displaying a confidence and tactical sense remarkable at the beginning of his first campaign. His attitude under reverses was an example to all. On 25 Dec after he had assumed command of 64 A.TK Regt, He saved by personal leadership under close range fire two 6 pr guns at Longstop Hill, which he had moved up close behind infantry in the assault on that place, and were about to be over-run. He later persuaded a unit of allied troops who were retiring in the general rearward movement, to stand and occupy a covering position. These troops were without ammunition which Lt Col Kingzett proceeded to get from Medjes in borrowed transport. His regiment has improved greatly in its keenness, alertness and military outlook since Lt Col Kingzett assumed command.

AN UNUSUAL 'SOUTH RUSSIA 1919' M.B.E. AND WESTERN FRONT 1915 GROUP OF EIGHT TO THE ROYAL ARMY MEDICAL CORPS. A Group of eight comprising M.B.E. (Military) 1st type breast badge hallmarked for Garrard and Co. London 1919, Distinguished Conduct Medal named to 10711 S. Mjr F.W. Sharpe R.A.M.C. 1914 Star with clasp to 10711 Q.M. Sjt F. W. Sharpe R.A.M.C. War medal and Victory medal with Mentioned in Despatches oak leaf to Q.M. & Major F.W. Sharpe, Long Service and Good Conduct medal to 10711 Q.M. Sjt F.W. Sharpe R.A.M.C. Serbian Order of St. Sava, 5th Class in silver and enamel and Greek Order of George I, Chevalier's breast badge in silver and enamel. Frederick William Sharpe had a long and fascinating, eventful and highly decorated career with the Royal Army Medical Corps. Born in Cirencester in October 1872 he joined the R.A.M.C. on the 18th April 1895 at Aldershot. He travelled to South Africa in January 1900 and appears to have been eligible for a Queen's South Africa medal with Cape Colony and Orange Free State clasps, he is recorded as being sick and transferred to the 15th Field Hospital in Bloemfontein. From September 1906 he was stationed in Jamaica where, on the 8th February, he fractured his pelvis during an earthquake. He was awarded the Long Service and Good Conduct Medal on the 1st April 1914 on completion of 21 years service. At the outbreak of the First World War he had achieved the rank of Quarter master Serjeant. He landed in France on the 24th August 1914 with the 12th General Hospital at Rouen. Although his 1914 star has a clasp his Medal Index clasps states he was 'Ineligible for Clasp to 14 Star', perhaps because his hospital was not 'within range of German guns'. He transferred to Number 6 Cavalry Field Ambulance on the 8th December 1914 and remained there until being discharged to a commission with the RAMC as Quarter Master on the 28th May 1916. Sharpe's Mention in Despatches came from Field Marshall French's despatch of the 5th April 1915 (Gazette 22nd June 1915), his Distinguished Conduct Medal was awarded 'For conspicuous gallantry and devotion in the performance of his duties, on many occasions under fire' (Gazette 11th January 1916 and 1st April 1916). The Serbian Order of St. Sava was awarded for his service in Salonika during 1917 (Gazette 28th January 1918). The M.B.E. was awarded for service during military operations in South Russia (Gazette 3rd February 1920). The Greek Order of King George 1st was awarded for his work in the town of Edessa and his engagement with the community (Gazette 1st July 1920). A black and white photograph of the Order of St Sava is annotated 'By Order of the King of Serbia for distinguished services to the Serbian Sick and Wounded'. Award document and citation in Greek from the people of the Town of Edessa expressing their sincere thanks and gratitude for the philanthropic acts towards the community and the generous donations to the town's hospital and other facilities'. With extensive copied research, Gazette entries and documents. Provenance Noonans London.
